This time of year was always an interesting time when I was a youth minister. For our family, summers were a busy time filled with mission trips, game nights, service projects and lots of miles logged on a church bus. By the time August rolled around, we would look forward to the slower pace that came with the return of school. The teens might have disagreed.

For several of our families here at Southwest, this is back to school time. It's a time of excitement and nervousness. It's a time where schedules get filled with new activities. It's a time for renewed friendships and new ones. In our community, it's also a time for new and returning college students to come into our community. I hope you will be praying for our students, teachers, staff and families as school begins. Let's pray for friendships that honor God. Let's pray for parents who are sending their kindergartener across town or their college freshman across the country. Let's pray for opportunities to connect with some of those college students. Let's pray for a great school year!

- Brian
